INTRODUCTION.

In the following pages an attempt is made to bring into order the details of descent of two of the lines of the posterity of John Alden, the Pilgrim. Mainly they are a record of our researches, and of the labor of our many friendly helpers. There can be no question of the value and the necessity of such work as this, even if imperfectly done, if it is once conceded that it is worth while to preserve records of descent; and one who attempts to follow any line of our family in the first two hundred years, when there were few Plymouth or Bristol County towns in which a John or Joseph or David or Ebenezer did not live, and in some more than one at the same time, will need all the light that he can get from any source in arriving at the truth as to the parentage of a given person. It is useless for us to regret that this record of a sister and brother is in double form, and that some of the facts connected with their common ancestors are stated more than once in the historical sketch that precedes the matter comprehended under the title-page. The daily duties of each have left too little time for even this result, and the genealogist who uses our work must exercise what patience he can with the repetitions. To the descendants of either the duplications of fact will seem less vexatious.

This double plan of work, by which each of us becomes solely responsible for his work, does not extend to the arrangement of the order of statement, in which a plan which seemed on the whole the least objectionable has been adopted. Each Alden mentioned will be distinguished by an Arabic numeral before the name, and the relationship to the immediate ancestor will be shown by the number of that ancestor after the name.

Errors excepted, in the index will be found the name of every Alden descendant who appears in the text, and of the husband or wife of each, but not of the parents of such husband or wife.

In closing this labor of filial love and devotion, which has involved carriage rides to most of the old towns, the reading of many records, the removal of the moss and accumulated turf from memorial stones, and listening to the stories of those aged ones who are hastening to join those whose memory we seek to perpetuate, we lay down the pleasing burden in the hope that in some degree we shall seem to the reader to have served faithfully the cause in which we are interested.

ALDEN HISTORY.

It will not be without interest to the student who is not familiar with the facts connected with the earlier generations of the Aldens to pass in review, in a brief manner, some of the known events occurring in the lives of those from whom we are descended; and that course seems the more necessary because the records of some of the most important to us are not known to have been printed before. To this review of the events mentioned, we subjoin, for convenience in reference, in the second part the names of the children born in the earlier generations, as usually printed, though we follow in detail only our own line.

John Alden, the Pilgrim, was about twenty-one years old when he landed; and President John Adams, descended from him through his daughter Ruth, says he was the first stripling to land on Plymouth Rock. He was the last to die of those who signed the civil compact which began in America government for the people, by the people; and our ancestor is thus the personal representative of the beginning and the end of the Pilgrim colonization.

There is no evidence that he was at first by education or conviction in sympathy with the views or the sufferings that drove the Pilgrims into exile. In the meetings at Scrooby or the dwelling at Leyden he had no part; nor is it probable that until he came into direct personal association with the exiles during their lonely voyage, and learned to estimate at their true value the lofty principle and unselfish consecration to duty which lay at the foundation of the movement, that he was drawn to identify himself with it.

The evidence of Governor Bradford is conclusive on this point, and Arber's book places Alden first among the five hired men who went out with the company in the "Mayflower." Bradford says, "John Alden was hired for a cooper at Southampton where the ship victualled, and being a hopeful young man (likely, promising, we should say), was much desired, but left to his own liking, to go or stay, when he came here, but he stayed, and married here."

So it was a case of good seed falling by happy providence in fruitful soil, and bringing forth a hundred-fold in present honor and future prosperity and happiness.

The hiring of John Alden was a renewed evidence that the founders of the Colony, who already had secured the services of Myles Standish, a man so little identified with them that some have doubted whether he was even a Protestant, recognized the fact that one who would keep the hoops on the water-casks in good order was as essential to the success of the voyage as Governor Carver or Elder Brewster, and, like practical statesmen, provided for the temporal as well as for the spiritual needs of the company.

In the cool and cautious commendation of Bradford, which gives warrant for no belief in any great social advancement of the "hopeful" young man, it is impossible to read one hint of the fact that in little more than twenty years Alden was one of seven, all writing "gentleman" as a proper indication of their social position, who were chosen to negotiate the settlement of difficulties with the Puritan Colony, and that during all the rest of his long and busy life he was Deputy (representative) in the Court of the Colony, or Assistant to the Governor, who thus mentions him.

It may not be far from truth to guess that the social space that at first separated Bradford, who was more than any other the financial and business head of the Colony, and his hired man, with the rapid promotion of the latter, so that in seven years he was next the Governor in rank and power, with the natural antipathy between the king and the heir-apparent, fairly accounts for the omission.

Perhaps those who wish to believe that John Alden was entitled to a coat-of-arms may derive some confirmation of their theory from the fact that in 1643, as above written, he is called "gentleman"; but, as we know nothing in history or genealogy that connects him with that John Alden of the Middle Temple to whom on Sept. 8, 1607, Camden, herald-at-arms, adjudged a coat-of-arms "Gules, Three Crescents within a border engrailed ermine by the name of Alden," we shall have to allow that the probability of our ancestor stepping on board the "Mayflower" with his cooper's adze in one hand and his coat-of-arms in the other is too small to entitle it to consideration.

Much more pleasing to the pride of a rational mind is the knowledge that in an age when good men and even mild men did, and verily thought they ought to do, acts that every one now condemns, there is no record of our ancestor as a persecutor, or as having any part in the awful delusion that darkened the closing years of his century.

With all the diligence at our command we have not been able to add anything to what is already known of John Alden and Priscilla, though the Mayflower Descendant lately printed the inventory of his estate, or of Joseph and Mary (Simmons). Even their burial-places are unknown to us, though it may well be that the tradition that places the grave of Priscilla by the side of that of her daughter, Elizabeth Pabodie, at Little Compton, R.I., is true.

Perhaps the one feature in the history of his ancestors which the thoughtful descendant of the Pilgrims remembers with the least pleasure is the relation of the immigrants to those whom they found in possession of the country. It is no settlement of the question of fair title to say that they fairly paid for what they got; for the use which the buyers were to make of the land was so different from that which the sellers had made or could make that it was only when experience showed the latter how much more than the mere right to cultivate the soil they had sold had been conveyed, and how they could no longer cross over it to reach their fishing places, that the irrepressible conflict was manifest.

With waning power and always diminishing resources the red men fought out the battle, and there was peace when the whites at last had them cooped in definite reservations or lying in unmarked graves. To know that among the conquering invaders there was one with purpose so just and mind so equitable that the weak might trust their cause with him, and so grounded in the respect of his own people that his opinions would command obedience, is to be sure that such a man was one from whom all good men would be glad to claim descent, and official records show that our ancestor was that man. The paper which follows may be found in the Plymouth Colony Deeds, vol. ii. p. 41, and has already been printed in Mayflower Descendant, vol. ii. p. 31: —

Whereas a difference hath arisen between the Inhabitants off Sandwidge and the Sachem off Manomett and other Indians conserning a Tract of upland called quitnite the said Sachem with the Rest having chosen Miles Standish senior and John Alden senior; and the said Townsmen of Sandwidge haveing chosen Robert Dennis of Yarmouth and John Smith of Barnstable to arbitrate and fully to conclude and end the aforesaid differences; all the said pties of Sandwidge and the said Sachem haveing given full power to end and conclude all Differences between the said pties Difering for any matter of Land.

Wee therefore haveing waighed the arguments on both sides according to our best understanding have; all the pties that is to say, Miles

Videlecet wee Doe by these prsents in full satisfaction wee give unto the said Sachem &c twenty six acres of upland onely for all that the said pties have can or may challenge in full satisfaction for all Rightes claims or Demands of all or any pte of the said Lands appertaining to the Towne of Sandwidge except the foremencioned twenty six acres of upland; Also wee do mutually agree and conclude the said Sachem &c shall have the twenty six acres of Land in one Intire place provided it be in the fitest Land for their use; Wee alsoe graunt to the said Sachem &c libertie to fell fitt wood to ffence the said Land upon any pte of the said quitnite alwaies provided incase there be not sufficient upon the said twenty six acres of upland; farther It is concluded that the said Indians make a sufficient ffence at their own Dammage; and that the said Sachem shall for himself and all other Indians that shall Resort to him; shall undertake for him and them that neither hee or any such Indians that they shall not Damnifye the said Townsmen of Sandwidge by killing or hunting any such cattle as they shall att any time put upon the said necke: and in case any cattle be hurt or killed by the Indians upon due proofe the aforesaid Sachem shall make the Dammage good; and that there may be naighborly agreement between the said Indians and the Townsmen of Sandwidge Alsoe It is concluded by the said Miles Standish John Alden Robert Dennis and John Smith that the said Sachem and all that appertaine to him or Resort unto him shall not hunt or chase the cattle of the towne of Sandwidge; And if the said Sachem shall see any cattle of the English in any danger the Sachem shall prsently give notice to some man or men of the Towne of Sandwidge.

To all the aforementioned conclusions Wee have subscribed our names This 15th of Aprill 1653

MILES STANDISH
ROBERT DENNIS
JOHN SMITH

In addition to such service as this the Plymouth Records show many instances in which his neighbors had the benefit of his counsel in adjusting conflicting claims, and in restoring harmony and good will between brothers and friends who disagreed as to bounds and rights. In those days, when the office sought the man so strenuously that a fine followed non-acceptance, it might lead to a false conclusion to infer personal character from continuous official position, but the evidence of these suffrages of fellow-townsmen and neighbors cannot be misinterpreted.

A little more than sixty years after his death a Quincy rhymester, whose excellent commendation of our ancestor will somewhat reconcile us to his doggerel, had occasion to sing the eulogy of Alden's grand-daughter Sarah Thayer, lately dead: —

> Her grandfather he was a man who did the truth reveal,
> And to defend Christ's kingdom great he burned with holy zeal.
> Like holy Abraham of old left land and kindred all,
> And wandering up and down he went wherever God did call.
> From old England he did come o'er where heathen did possess
> For to enjoy religion pure, and God this man did bless,
> And made him once a ruler here, let's not forget his fame,
> He lived above the age of man, John Alden was his name.

This is definite and direct, spoken to men who must have known the man; and so we may take it as conclusive that when, as the seventh signer of the civil compact, he identified himself with the colonists who were to make him Governor's Assistant for forty-three years, and thirteen years Treasurer of the Colony, he was not, as at first, with them only, but of them.

His Duxbury home was at Eagle-Tree Pond, some two miles north of Captain's Hill, and eight from Plymouth.

The line of his descendants to which we belong is easily remembered by the alternation John[1], Joseph[2], John[3], Joseph[4].

It is known that Joseph Alden, son of John the Pilgrim, lived on the Bridgewater land granted to his father, which land lay near the building of the Historical Society in the present town of West Bridgewater. The burying-ground in use in the latter part of the seventeenth century was on the south-westerly side of the street on which the Historical Society building stands, and is included in the estate of the late Francis Howard, Esq.; but no fragment of a stone or depression in the surface of the smooth lawn around the memorial stone which marks the centre of the grant gives any evidence of the undoubted fact that the first settlers were buried there.

It is with profound satisfaction, when one leaves the foggy land of tradition and distorting half-knowledge, where "it is said" and "we may believe" and the like phrases usurp the place of truth, to stand upon the firm rock of knowledge. Such a change we experience in passing from the second to the third generation, and thereafter we rely on recorded documents and on other reliable evidence.

Joseph[2], the son of John[1], was younger brother of the Captain John who suffered so much from the effects of the witchcraft delusion in Boston, and his posterity must ever be proud to claim alliance with one of the clear heads that saw through the terrible imposture.

His will has not been found, but the following is copied from Plymouth Probate Records, and the inventory of his estate is also given: —

JOHN LEONARD
JOSEPH SNOW
SAMUEL ALLIN JUN^R

John[3] removed to Middleborough about 1700 and before his children were born. His gravestone and that of Hannah (White), his wife, are in Purchade* burying-ground, Plymouth Street, North Middleborough.

He was one of the original purchasers of Middleborough from the Indians; and the cellar of his house is only about twenty rods north of the road leading from North Middleborough to the centre, and less than one-eighth of a mile east of the Purchade burying-ground in which he and his wife Hannah (White) lie. His will, made in the year of his death, 1730, is here reproduced as having a profound interest to his descendants, and not much less to all who desire to know the characteristics, self-revealed, of the founders of our State that are shown by it. So far as we know, it has not been printed before.

Know all men by these presents that I John Alden of the Town of middleborough In the county of plimouth In new england being at this present time very sick and weak: yet of sound and disposing memory & understanding: Blessed be God for the same: and being senceable of my own mortality: and Knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die: Do make and ordain this to be my last will and Testament to Remain firm and Inviolable for Ever. That is to say: first and principaly I Recommend my Soul to God that gave it: and my body I committ to the Earth to be decently Buried: hoping to Receive the same in Glory at the general Resurection through the Merits of Jesus Christ: and as for my outward Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to Bless me: I give and dispose of the Same In maner following: Imprimis I Give and bequeath unto my Loving wife Hannah Alden one third part of all my moveable Estate whatsoever and one third part of all the Debts due unto me my just debts and funeral charges being first paid out of my moveable Estate the Same to be for her comfortable Subsistance and to be at her own disposing: Also I give and bequeath unto my said wife the whole use and Improvement of my Dwelling house barn

* Purchade gets its name from some corruption of the Indian name, "Pachaet," "Package, Pickade, Ptchade," given to the neck "near Teticut river."

This burial-place might properly be called the Alden ground, for it was given by John Alden[3]; and a very large number of those allied to us, besides those in our direct line, lie all around in this place. The names and ages of some who were born in the eighteenth century are given here: David, 83; David, 61; Elijah, 98; Jared, 84; Job, 88; Lucinda, 62; Vienna, 84, among others.

But the most interesting of these not in our direct line is John, the younger brother of Joseph[4]. He was born in 1719, and died in 1821. It seems to bring us very near in point of time to remember that this son of a grandson of John, the Pilgrim, was alive during the lifetime of some who may read this note. The great age of these noted above, most, if not all of whom were like him descended from Joseph[2], seems to emphasize the remark, often made, that the descendants of that line now far outnumber those of all the others combined, and suggests the thought that great additional vitality must have come in through marriage.

and outhouses during her widdowhood Also I Give unto my said wife the whole use and Improvement of all the lands: which by this my last will I Give to my Son John Alden: during her widdowhood: Alwayes provided that if shee remain a widdow untill my s^{d} Son John comes to the age of twenty one years then from that time forward shee shall have the Use and Improvement of but one half of s^{d} dwelling house barn and outhouses: and the Use and Improvement of but one third of the aforesaid land given to my son John during her widdowhood: Item whereas I have formerly given unto my Son David Alden (by deed of Gift) fifty acres of land together with other things that I have given him: and done for him: I Give unto him now my share in the land caled the 80 acres belonging to Pachade men, being in number the fourth share therein; Item I give and bequeath unto my Son Joseph Alden a certain parcel of my homestead land bounded as followeth: Beginning at a red oak tree being a corner bound of my Son David Alden's land standing to the Eastward of his house: and from thence Ranging on a strait line cross my field to a small white oak tree marked standing on the northerly side of the way that leads from my house to titicut: and from thence bounded by the northerly side of s^{d} way towards my house unto a stake & stones Standing on the northerly side of s^{d} way near the ditch field bars and from thence on a strait line to a stump with stones about it mentioned in the agreement between my Self & Joseph Warren & from s^{d} Stump on a strait line to the white oak tree being the south east corner bound of the lot of land In the neck which I bought of Joseph Warren & from thence by the line of s^{d} lot unto Namasket River and from thence bounded by the River down Stream to the land of David Alden & from thence by s^{d} David Aldens land to the red oak tree first mentioned: And also one other parcel of land bounded as followeth beginning at the small white oak tree marked standing on the northerly side of the way that leads from my house to titicut before mentioned & from thence on a strait line to the northeast corner of the land which Barnabas Eaton bought of Joseph Warren: and from thence bounded by the s^{d} Eatons land unto a small white oak marked Standing on the northerly side of the cartway between s^{d} Eatons house and the causey and from thence on a strait line to the little causey and from thence as the cartway now goeth on the Southerly side of the little Swamp that is to the Southward of my house until it comes to the Southerly end of s^{d} Swamp and from thence on a strait line to a cedar stake Standing on the Southerly side of the aforesaid Way that leads from my: house to titicut: & from thence to the small white oak first mentioned: Item I Give and bequeath unto my Son John Alden all my homestead land & meadow which lye there Joyning together on the Easterly Side of the aforesaid land given to my son Joseph Alden: Allways Reserving to my aforesaid wife the use and Improvement of the dwelling house barn & outhouses and of all the afores^{d} land given to my son John: according as is above expressed: Also I give unto my s^{d} Son John

my Share in the land called the 80 acres belonging to pachade men being in number the fifth Share therein: And my will is that my Son John Shall pay as a legacy unto my Son Noah Alden: and unto my five daughters Thankful Eaton Hannah Wood Lydia Alden Mary Alden and Abigail Alden: unto each sixteen pounds: within Six years after he comes to the age of twenty one years: And my will is that my aforesaid Son Joseph Shall pay as a Legacy unto my afores^{d} Son: Noah: and my afores^{d} daughters Thankfull Hannah Lydia Mary and Abigail to Each of them forty shillings within Six years after he comes to the age of twenty one years: Item I Give and bequeath unto my Son Ebenezer Alden forty acres of land next adjoining to the lower Side of my Son David Aldens Land and to extend so far down the River as that a line Square from the line of my land to the River Shall Include forty acres: And also Twenty acres of land adjoyning to the South West Side of the last mentioned of the two parcels of land given to my Son Joseph: And also my will is that [in some convenient*] there be a piece of land left for a Burying place within the afores^{d} twenty acres to be bounded beginning at the westerly corner bound of the forty acre lot which was Joseph Warrens and to extend to the grave stone of my son Lemuel and to be: 4: pole in breadth on the northerly side of s^{d} line: said peice of land to be perpetually Reserved for that use: and in Stead thereof there Shall be allowance made in Setting out s^{d} 20 acres of the like quantity: Item I Give unto my three Sons Joseph John & Ebenezer all my Right and Intrest of cedar swamp in the purchase called the six and twenty mens purchase: to be equally divided among them: Item I Give and bequeath unto my five daughters Thankfull: Hannah: Lydia: Mary & Abigail the other two thirds of my moveable estate: and also two thirds of all the debts due unto me: my Just Debts and funeral charges being first paid out of my moveable estate: the same to be equally divided among them: Save only to my daughters Thankfull: and Hannah: fifty pounds less than their equal proportion they having already Received so much of my Estate: Item I Give and bequeath unto my loving wife Hannah Alden my negro man to be at her own disposing: And my will is that my Son Noah be brought up to learning at the colledge: And my will is that the executors of this my last will and Testament shall sell all my land which I have not herein particularly given away & disposed of at the best advantage they can to defray the charge thereof: and In case that the value of s^{d} land be more than is necessary for the defraying of the charge thereof: that the Remainder be equally divided between my six children Noah: Thankfull: Hannah Lydia: Mary: and Abigail: And my will is that my well beloved wife Hannah Alden and my Son David Alden shall be executors of this my last will and Testament

At a session of the Court held April, 1731, David Alden having renounced his position, Hannah was made sole executrix.

September, 1746, "the said executors being also since deceased," Samuel Edy, Jr., of Middleborough, yeoman, son of the daughter Lydia, was appointed administrator with the will annexed, with Noah Alden of Middleborough, husbandman, and Thomas Mayhew, merchant, of Plymouth, as his bondsmen.

This will has a good degree of interest to the general reader, and is especially interesting to an Alden descendant. Many of the forms which are now considered necessary in order that a will should be valid were not followed, and it will be noticed that the witnesses to this will certify to no more than that they saw him sign it. In the commingling of religious dogma and secular business it does not differ from most of the wills of that period, and perhaps not in the technical description of the parcels of land devised; but to a modern conveyancer the absence of all distances in any direction, and of all accurate points of compass, together with the temporary nature of the marks named, combine to leave a most obscure image of the tract conveyed. "The way that leads to Titicut" is clear, and from "the River down stream" is plain enough if one knew how long the bank of the river is followed, and at what point it was approached; but the "stump with stones round it," and the "cedar stake," and even "the white oak tree," by their temporary nature do but mark more emphatically that respect for the rights of others and the absolute subordination to law and property rights that made these frail monuments enough, and which traits still constitute the crowning glory of our New England heritage.

For the rest, some of us can shine for a minute in the reflected glory of an ancestor who threw around eighty-acre lots with the lavishness of an Eastern prince, and willed swamp land without designating and, perhaps, without himself knowing the number of acres given. Many will learn with surprise that our family boasts a slaveholder among its ancestors, and all will be touched by that change in detail in the wording of the will by which "some convenient" place for a burial-ground became the spot already hallowed by the grave of the giver's little son.

Each reader may guess for himself the motive that limited the large gifts to the wife to a continuing widowhood, according as a husband is considered a selfish tyrant who would rule, even in the grave, or as a wise friend who would continue to love and to protect even after death; but there will be no division of sentiment as to that clause which provides for the education of little Noah.

It was owing to no lack of foresight on the part of the testator that this provision failed to secure its object, but, rather, to the fact that the widow died so soon after her husband, and that it was only when the boy had attained his majority, in 1746, that the estate was finally settled.

But in spite of all hindrances Noah is shown by Sprague's "Annals of the American Pulpit" to have attained a large and varied usefulness, and it is impossible to read the final sentences in the quotation that follows from that work without recognizing in the dead clergyman the fruition of that infant promise that the father saw in his five-year-old son, so many years before: —

"He was born in Middleborough, May 30, 1725, the youngest of thirteen children. His father left property to secure him a college education, but it was improperly diverted from that purpose, and in consequence he was exposed to many hardships. Before he was twenty, he married and removed to Stafford, Conn., where he purchased a farm. There he joined the Congregational Church and continued in that form till 1753, when he became a Baptist.

"June, 1755, he became the minister of the Baptist Church in Stafford, and so continued until November, 1766, when he was installed as pastor of the Baptist Church in Bellingham, Mass. Here he continued until his death May, 1797, when nearly seventy-two years old.

"He was chosen as a delegate from Bellingham to the convention that adopted the Constitution of the United States, and of the Convention that formed the Constitution of Massachusetts, acquitting himself with great credit in both.

"His countenance was expressive of great mildness, dignity, and benevolence. Children were his delight, and they were never happier than when the objects of his attentions."

It will be seen that the ground in which John [3], his son Joseph, and wife Hannah Hall, and Joseph's son Ebenezer all lie, was given in this will; and it is an interesting fact that by the side of the last there is space for his wife, Ruth Fobes, who lies in North Carver. The part given in John's will lies next the street, there having been a modern addition in the rear, and his body lies in the first row next the north-west entrance. In the third row east is Joseph, 1716–1787; and in the fourth is Ebenezer, 1743–1773.

Here are copies in orthography and in form of some Alden inscriptions in Purchade Burial Ground of persons dying between 1730 and 1821:—

The son John, to whom the will leaves the home property, is he who lived on until 1821, being only eleven years old when the will was made. He was of the fourth generation from the Pilgrim, and we are of the eighth; but it would not be strange if there were people still living in Middleborough who remember him. His body lies in the third row from that of his father and that of his brother David. In the careful provision which the will makes for the liberal education of the son Noah is seen a most creditable reflection of the thought that founded Harvard College and Brown University.

Joseph[4] appears always to have lived in Middleborough, though some of the returns that he makes as administrator of his son Ebenezer's[5] estate may imply that in some part of the latter portion of his life he was an inhabitant of Plympton, with the widow of his son.

As appears from the subjoined table, he was twice married, but had children only by the first wife. Tradition more direct than usual says that Joseph lived and Ebenezer his son died in a house on Centre Street, North Middleborough, very near that village. The house is the second on the left side of the road next beyond the Colonel Eaton place.

There is no conveyance of this place to Joseph or Ebenezer in the Plymouth Registry, though one or the other is said once to have owned it.

Deborah Williamson, a widow, b. Sept. 11, 1716, m. Joseph Alden[4], Sept. 3, 1767, fourteen months after the death of Hannah (Hall). Although she bore no children to the Alden stock, and her maiden name and place of death and burial are unknown to us, and although she is visible but a minute before the obscurity in which she was before enveloped again swallows her up, perhaps forever, her connection with our family is of supreme importance for the reason that it is the occasion of a paper that traces our descent from John, the Pilgrim.

Joseph Alden lived between 1716 and 1787, his son Ebenezer between 1743 and 1773. In the short time between Ebenezer's marriage, December, 1763, and his death in January, 1773, six children were born to him. His mother died July 1, 1766.

The mother of Ebenezer's children remarried four years after the death of their father; and they were scattered, some in Bridgewater, perhaps with their maternal grandfather, some in Middleborough, and some with their aunt in Raynham.

Their father was a storekeeper in Middleborough, dying of measles in the middle of the winter; and his insolvent estate was settled by his father Joseph. Out of these conditions of death, dispersion, and remarriage has come the fact that there is no known record evidence that these children were the descendants of John, the Pilgrim. Of the fact there has been plenty of hearsay evidence, convincing enough and undisputed; but of proof that would entitle one to inherit an estate or to derive a pauper settlement there was none known.

Dr. Ebenezer Alden's History, 1867, painstaking and indispensable, says that Ebenezer married Hannah Hall, 1742, she being his mother, and the time a year before his birth; and Mitchell's History of Bridgewater gives us no more than his intention of marriage, 1763, with no hint of children. The marriage record of Middleborough shows that he was married there Dec. 22, 1763, but gives no names of children born to him. Under these circumstances it was of supreme importance to find in the Raynham house of Amos Hall, son of Fear Alden, sister of Ebenezer, a quit-claim deed made by Deborah Alden in 1789, after she was the widow of Joseph, and when perhaps it became necessary to raise money for the further support of the orphan children of Ebenezer by the sale of their grandfather's property, which document could not better have served our purpose if it had been a genealogical chart.

It is of small account that the deed is defective in that it makes no description or location of property affected, and gives no dates of former instruments mentioned, or that it never was formally acknowledged, so that it could be put on record. The paper, of undoubted authenticity, is before us, and is here copied: —

Know all Men by these Presents, that I Deborah Alden, Widow to Joseph Alden, late of Middleborough, in the County of Plymouth, deceased, in Consideration of Thirty four Pounds, Seventeen Shillings and two Pence, Lawful Money, to me in hand paid, by Abner Alden, and Eliab Alden, both of Middlebo^ro^ aforesaid, Yeomen, Lewis Hall Yeoman and Fear his Wife, Lois Alden, Orpah Alden & Polly Alden, all of Raynham, in the County of Bristol, and Hannah Alden, of Bridgewater, and Abner Alden & Joshua Fobes, Guardians to Joseph, Ruth, & Ebenezer Alden, Minors, Heirs to the Estate of said Joseph Alden, deceased, Do hereby Remit, Release and forever Quit Claim unto them the said Abner Alden, Eliab Alden, Lewis Hall & Fear his Wife, Lois Alden, Orpah Alden, Polly Alden, Hannah Alden, Joseph Alden, Ruth Alden and Ebenezer Alden, their Heirs & Assigns, forever, all my Right of Dower & Power of Thirds in, and to the Estate, both Real and Personal, which the said Joseph Alden, deceased, died seized of; as also, of all Lands and Real Estate which he made a Deed or Deeds of in the Time of my Intermarriage with him. To have and to hold the said Released Dower unto them, the said Abner Alden, Eliab Alden, Lewis Hall and Fear his Wife, Lois Alden, Orpah Alden, Polly Alden, Hannah Alden, Joseph Alden, Ruth Alden and Ebenezer Alden, to them, their Heirs and Assigns, forever, Free and Clear from my Heirs, Executors and Administrators.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto Set my Hand and Seal, this Twenty Ninth Day of August, Anno Domini 1789

Signed Sealed and Delivered in Presence of us — DEBORAH ALDEN (Seal)

THOMAS LEACH
ELISABETH LEACH

Nor is the history of Ruth Fobes, the mother of these children, and great-grandmother to us of the eighth generation, entirely without interest. She was born in 1744, and had not lived out nearly half her allotted time when she was left alone in the winter with six fatherless children around her, when she married Daniel Faunce, of Plympton, now North Carver, in 1777. She was of Bridgewater (Bridgewater Town Record), which makes it probable that she and one or more of her children found a home with her father Joshua Fobes, who was guardian.

There is every evidence that her marriage to Faunce was a prudent and successful one; and the provisions of his will when he died in 1803, as well as the house, still standing, in which they lived in North Carver, bear evidence that she needed at the time of her father's death no more than the nominal sum given her in his will. Besides these children of our line she had five, who came to adult life, by Mr. Faunce.

She names the oldest of her boys Alden, in tender memory of departed joys and griefs; but his remains rest in Ohio, whither he went in July, 1823. Two of the daughters who intermarried with the Vaughans, and their children, lie near her or in the centre burial-ground a mile beyond.

In her seventy-fourth year, July 28, 1817, as appears by her legible slate-stone, her life ended, and she lies at rest by the side of her second husband and of his first wife, in the North Carver ground, nearly in the centre, at the left side of the rear third.

A touching memorial of her early sorrows is on file at Plymouth Probate Office, with a copy of which this sketch may properly end: —

To the honorable John Cushing, Judge of the probate of Wills & Granting Letters of adm^n in the county of Plimouth &c.

Whereas my Husband Ebenezer Alden late of Middleborough deceased, died Intestate, leaving me with a number of small Children, & leaving many of his accounts unsettled & perplexed, and his Estate as I apprehend Insolvent, which will render the Settlement of his Estate too difficult for me in my Circumstances to undertake,

I would therefore Inform Your Honor that it is my desire that you would appoint my hon^d father Joseph Alden Adm^r of said Estate & you will oblige your humble serv^t

Ruth Alden

* "Mrs. Robinson's record," which is alluded to in connection with Raynham death statistics, is a list of deaths in Raynham, 1749–1876, kept by Mrs. Hannah Robinson, wife of Seth, until her death 1823, and then by her daughter Mrs. Hannah Robinson until her death. The record for the first twenty-four years is fragmentary, there being only one death recorded in some of the years. But after 1773 this voluntary labor was carefully done. There is ample evidence that the records are authentic, as where the town record gives the age as "one year," Mrs. Robinson gives it as "12 months." Here, then, are about a thousand names recorded of deaths occurring where there was no entry on the town record, and it is difficult to exaggerate the debt that we owe to these good ladies for their work. In 1886 the volume, "much worn," was in the hands of Mrs. Eunice Robinson wife of Joseph Tucker Leonard, and the copy from which these data are taken was then made by Samuel P. May, Esq., of Newton, and placed in the library of the New England Genealogical Society, where, with the liberality native to that place, it awaits the investigations of students.

Mr. Shaw was educated at Brown University and at Harvard Divinity School, graduating from the latter in the class of 1833. He was a faithful and respected Unitarian minister in Athol, Townsend, Hampton Falls, N.H., Mendon, and Sudbury.

Louisa Alden, the latest born of the three sisters, who all lived far beyond fourscore, was the first to die; and less time elapsed between her death and that of the latest survivor than between the births of the three. She was a prudent and affectionate wife, a good mother, and a faithful friend. Her children rise up and call her blessed.

Although not included in the plan of this book, it may be of assistance to descendants of Ebenezer[5] in other lines than through Polly and Ebenezer[6], as well as to the genealogist who shall assemble in one volume all the known posterity of the Pilgrim, that there should be here preserved certain memoranda having a good degree of authenticity. They were found in the papers of Mrs. Shaw, mother of one of the editors, and those of Mrs. Eunice Stevens, daughter of her aunt, Hannah Backus. There is no ground for belief that the records are copied one from the other; and, confirmed as both are, in many details, by Raynham town records, there is good reason for accepting them as reliable.

Before giving them, it is thought best here to place on record certain details found in Mrs. Shaw's paper of the names and marriage relations of the brothers and sisters of Joseph[4]. She was interested and intelligent in such things, and probably no essential departure from facts otherwise established will be found in her statement.

THOMAS.

Mrs. Shaw's memorandum gives no dates of birth, and they have been supplied from Raynham town records. It also lacks the names of "Ebenezer" and "Ezra," found on the town record, and gives "Thomas," not there found. Perhaps Thomas may be one of these two renamed, and the other may have died before her knowledge of her aunt's family.

The name of the family is always given with accent on second syllable, and sometimes spelled "Persho," and sometimes "Presho." The mother's name is sometimes Orpah, sometimes Orpha.

APPENDIX.

Although the subject is outside the scope of this book, the prominent position of Capt. John Alden of Boston in the witchcraft delusion of 1692 will lend to the papers here printed an interest to Alden descendants that will fully justify their appearance here, particularly because the first one, copied from the Massachusetts Archives, volume on Witchcraft, p. 25, is not generally known.

The writer was probably an eye-witness of the scenes of May 31, so graphically set down in the paper that follows his letter.

To Isaac Addington Esq. Boston from Salem 31 May 1692.

Worthy Sir I have herewith sent you the names of the persons that are desired to be transmitted hither by habeas Corpus and have p^r^sumed to send a Coppy thereof being more as I p^r^sume accustomed to that practise than y^r^selfe and beg pardon if I have infringed upon you therein. I fear we shall not this weeke try all that we have sent for, by reason the tryalls will be tedious & the afflicted persons cannot readily give their testimonys being struck dumb and senceless for a season at the name of the accused. I have been all this day at the village with the Gent.^m^ of the Council at the Exaicon of ye persons where I have beheld most strange things Scarce credible but to Spectators and too tedious here to relate, and amongst the rest Capt Alden & Mr English have their mittimus & I must say according to the p^r^sent appearance of things they are as deeply concerned as the rest, for the afflicted spare no person of what quality soever neither conceal their Crimes tho never so hainous, we pray that Tittuba the Indian & Mrs. Thatcher's maid may be transferred as Evidences but desire they may not come amongst the prisoners but rather by themselves with the Records of the Court of Assis^ts^ 1679, agt Bridgett Olliver & the records relating to the first persons committed left in Mr. Webbs hands by the order of the Council I pray pardon that I cannot now further enlarge and with my Cordiall Service only add that I am &c Yo^r^ most humble serv^t^.

THO. NEWTON.

Isaac Addington was Judge of Probate; and Thomas Newton, Attorney-General, was evidently there in his official capacity.

Here follows Alden's account of his troubles at Salem Village: —

An account how John Aldin, senior, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, mariner, on the 28th day of May, 1692, was sent for by the magistrates of Salem upon the accusation of a company of poor distracted or possessed creatures or witches; and being sent by Mr. Stoughton arrived there the 31st of May and appeared at Salem Village before Mr. Gidney, Mr. Hathorn and Mr. Curwin.

Those wenches being present, who played their juggling tricks, falling down, crying out, and staring in people's faces; the magistrates demanded of them several times, who it was of all the people in the room that hurt them: one of these accusers pointed several times at one Captain Hill, there present, but spake nothing; the same accuser had a man standing at her back to hold her up; he stooped down to her ear, then she cried out Aldin, Aldin afflicted her; one of the magistrates asked her if she had ever seen Aldin, she answered no; he asked her how she knew it was Aldin; she said the man told her so. Then all were ordered to go down into the street, where a ring was made; and the same accuser cried out There stands Aldin, a bold fellow, with his hat on before the judges; he sells powder and shot to the Indians and French, and lies with the Indian squaws, and has Indian papooses. Then was Aldin committed to the marshal's custody, and his sword taken from him for they said he afflicted them with his sword. After some hours Aldin was sent for to the meeting-house in the Village, before the magistrates; who required Aldin to stand upon a chair, to the open view of all the people. The accusers cried out that Aldin pinched them, then, when he stood upon the chair, in the sight of all the people, a good way distant from them. One of the magistrates bid the marshal to hold open Aldin's hands, that he might not pinch those creatures. Aldin asked them why they should think that he should come to that Village to afflict those persons that he never knew or saw before.

Mr. Gidney bid Aldin confess, and give glory to God. Aldin said he hoped he should give glory to God and hoped he never should gratify the devil; but appealed to all that ever knew him if they ever suspected him to be such a person, and challenged any one, that could bring in anything upon their own knowledge that might give suspicion of his being such an one. Mr. Gidney said he had known Aldin many years, and had been at sea with him, and always looked upon him to be an honest man, but now he saw cause to alter his judgment.

Aldin answered, he was sorry for that, but he hoped God would clear up his innocency, that he would recal that judgment again, and added, that he hoped that he should with Job maintain his integrity till he died. They bid Aldin look upon the accusers, which he did, and they fell down. Aldin asked Mr. Gidney what reason there could be given, why Aldin's looking on him did not strike him down as well, but no reason was given. But the accused were brought to Aldin to touch them, and this touch they said made them well. Aldin began to speak of the providence of God, in suffering these creatures to accuse innocent persons. Mr. Noyes (a minister) asked Aldin why he should offer to speak of the providence of God, and so went on with discourse, and stopt Aldin's mouth as to that.

Aldin told Mr. Gidney that he could assure him that there was a lying spirit in them, for there is not a word of truth in all these say of me. But he was again committed to the marshal.

To Boston Aldin was carried by a constable; no bail would be taken for him; but was delivered to the prison-keeper, where he remained fifteen weeks; (which would be till the middle of September) and then observing the manner of trials, and evidence then taken, was at length prevailed with to make his escape, and being returned was bound over to answer at the Superior Court at Boston, the last Tuesday in April, 1693: and was then cleared by proclamation, none appearing against him.

Per JOHN ALDEN.

It is many years since the last of the male descendants of Capt. John Alden died; but Alden Street in Boston, where he had a large landed estate, with the historical record of his services to the Colony, as the commander of her armed ships, will long keep his memory green.
